

Revitalizing Small Employer Group Health Insurance Market For CBD

Since the legalization of CBD all over the country, insurance companies are still not covering the costs of CBD for their patients. That means people who want to go the healthy route, who do not want to get addicted to pain medications, are not being covered by their insurance companies.

This is ironic because pain medications are known to cause side effects like depression, clouded thinking, developing a higher tolerance, addiction, and a weakened immune system.

The worst part is the higher tolerance and depression.

Let's talk about the higher tolerance for a moment. The longer you take these medications, the more you will need to get the same effect you got when you started taking them.

This means your liver has to process more medication overtime which is worse because pain medications are known to take a huge toll on your liver and your immune system.

Speaking of immune system, you put yourself in a vulnerable position when you rely too much on pain medications. You want to have a robust immune system that can fight almost anything out there.

That is the reason why we want to get the small insurance companies in play. Companies that will cover the cost of CBD products if the patients want to go the alternative health route. At the end of the day, it should be the choice of the individual on how they want to get treated. It shouldn't be decided by a faceless company what kind of treatment they can and cannot get.

Visit HCHAlliance.org for more information on this.